

Dont Look Back: The Story of Hannah Dawes

Dont Look Back is a sweet, clean Victorian story. Hannah Dawes loves to paint. She dreams of being a great artist. Her sand sculptures and paintings win her acclaim in her local community of New Beach, New Jersey, but when circumstances take her away from the Jersey shore, she must learn to love the sprawling vistas of High Bend, Colorado. Strangers in a strange land, Hannah and her family travel across the country to live with Hannah's Uncle James, a bachelor rancher whom Hannah has never met. Life on the ranch is hard, and Hannah misses her old home, that is until she starts to paint the glorious Colorado landscapes, and catches the eye of a shy young ranch hand named Adam. At first Hannah resists her romantic impulses, but Adam's quiet strength soon wins her over. As they grow closer things seem rosey, until someone from Hannah's past turns up in High Bend - a man who is determined to have her, no matter what the cost. Originally called Hannah's Dream by Lenore Butler.
