

This is a NOVELLA of approximately 24,000 words = 70 odd pages. Its the first day of Ninnas job in the local animal shelter...and a dog is talking to her. Not just any dog...a fat, old, smart-alecky Basset Hound who says his name is Mosey. She cant quit, she needs this job. And then theres the yummy vet. Who turns out to live across the street from her in a much bigger house than her tiny house. Big enough to hold a few animals - including the mouthy Mosey. With all this going on, she doesnt have time to worry about the rash of break-ins and the sense of being watched. Shes too busy worrying that shes nuts. When Ninna agrees to dog sit for the cute vet from work, she sees it as a trial at being a pet owner and a way to build on her budding relationship with the vet. For Mosey, this weekend means time to get to know each other. For the stalker whos tracking Ninnas movements, it means...opportunity.
